Illinois' Acting Chief Engineer of Highways Accused

Fleming Among 19 Men Charged With Violating Hatch Statute

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Approximately 80 Illinois state highway officials and employees, including Matthew J. Fleming, acting chief engineer, have been charged with violating the Hatch anti-politics law.

As the first group of 19 defendants were summoned for trials today before James W. Irwin, examiner for the U. S. Civil Service Commission, it was disclosed officially that Fleming was one of the officials charged with violating the act.

Fleming declined to comment on the charges, but the acting chief engineer has filed with the commission an answer in which he denied that the position he holds is covered in the federal statute. The act prohibits political activity by state employees whose salary is paid in part with federal funds, or who are engaged in activities financed wholly or in part by federal money.

No detailed charges against Fleming, who became acting chief engineer after the resignation of Ernst Lieberman Oct. 1, were announced by commission officials. They would be disclosed when his case is formally set for hearing, commission officials said.

First Case of Kind
The cases here, commission officials said, were the first in any state involving highway division employees. The only previous trials of state employees under the Hatch law were in Ohio, Georgia and New York. They estimated that the first group of cases would require two weeks. The cases are against employees of the Springfield district of the highway division.

After completion of the cases here, between 45 and 50 additional cases, involving Fleming and other employees of the central office of the division, will be set for trial.

J. L. Todd, Springfield district maintenance engineer for the division, was also charged.

CIO Convention Pressing to End

Detroit, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Congress of Industrial Organizations pressed its annual convention toward adjournment today in an extra session made necessary by a flood of resolutions that was interrupted yesterday by a demonstration which marked the reelection of President Philip Murray and his entire official family.

In accepting another one-year term, Murray called upon President Roosevelt to "come just a little bit closer to labor, to have faith in American labor—to understand that American labor has a soul, a heart, a mind, a conscience, a body."

"Labor's chief difficulty," he declared, "lies in the unwillingness, the obvious unwillingness of government and business to accept labor in good faith."

The 55-year-old vice president of the United Mine Workers of America flatly told industry not to "take advantage of the present grave national emergency to attempt to manipulate labor."

The War Today!

(This daily feature, conducted by Dewitt Mackenzie, is written today by Fred Vanderschmidt.)

(Telegraph Special Service)

The five-day-old battle in the sands of Cyrenaica has changed the face of the war and presented Adolf Hitler with a problem he never had before—what to do about an army desperately on the defensive, far from home and facing annihilation.

In almost every element it is the German blitzkrieg in complete reverse. For the first time the British are more powerful, better armed, better supplied, the battle is of their own choosing and the battlefield gives them almost unlimited space in which to move their weapons; so swiftly that the damage is done long before it can be properly comprehended.

The German armies are divided and the halves are encircled, the tanks and armored cars are beating their iron heads to pieces against harder, better weapons. Even the weather has turned sour on Hitler; a coastal deluge on the birth of the British offensive bogged his planes down on his airfields and, field accounts say, the vast imperial parade across the Egyptian frontier has scarcely any hindrance from the air.

It is only necessary to read the German and Italian communiques to tell how gravely this campaign is regarded in Axisland. Beyond the bare mention of axis counterattacks there has been no serious axis effort to claim that the British are being impeded. Today the Hitler communique says the battle is "fierce" and that the British are "strong"—nothing more.

Even now Hitler must be contemplating the necessity of abandoning these thousands of German African fighters to military destruction.

What this will do to the mentality of the German folks back home who have been industriously sold on the idea that German soldiers and German weapons are invincible, becomes, then, a matter of urgent consideration.

In the first place it is imperative that there be big victories somewhere else—hence the vast and reckless new drive in the snows of Russia at the start of the sixth month of the eastern war. The first prize of this drive is Rostov-on-Don, which was claimed to the so-called master race with a great tooting of radio trumpets this morning; it looks now as if Hitler is out at all costs to take Moscow, itself, by Christmas.

Because of the military urgency in Russia, because the British Mediterranean fleet is so definitely the job, and because the morale of the Italian armed forces is so very low, speedy axis reinforcement and relief of the Germans in Africa would be nothing short of a military miracle.

So Hitler is doing the next best thing; trying to pull the French back into the war as an ally; endeavoring to bring about a state of belligerency between the untested French armies of North Africa and the British, which will keep his enemies occupied before the Mediterranean for a long time and assure the axis of African coastal bases, no matter what.

Incredibly Small, Bullet-Shaped Molecule Held Cause of Influenza

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—(AP)—An incredibly small and deadly bullet-shaped molecule, only four millionths of an inch thick, has been branded as the cause of one of the miseries of mankind, human influenza.

Its isolation and its picture, taken by the new electron microscope, were described today to the American Philosophical Society.

Magnified 25,000 diameters until it shows up as a very tiny grey dot on a photograph, the picture is of a deadly specimen taken from the "flu" infection which killed a person here three years ago. It is moreover the same kind of "flu" type A—which spread over the country last winter.

This molecule, a small bit of protein, is one of the tiniest disease agents known to science. One of the most startling things to the layman and of profound

Senators Declare Navy Should Tell Public of Sinkings

Say Policy Shows Lack of Confidence of the American People

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Three members of the senate's so-called non-interventionist bloc—Senators Wheeler (D-Mont), Van Nuys (D-Ind) and Nye (R-ND)—called on the navy department today to make public the number of German submarines sunk by American warships.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), said, however, that "naval experience in both the last war and this one has demonstrated that it is not always desirable to announce the sinking of enemy submarines."

"I would rather take the studied opinion of the American and British navies than that of the isolationist members of the senate," he added.

In separate talks with reporters, Wheeler, Van Nuys and Nye declared that the nation should be given all information regarding naval activities which could

Price Regulation Given No. 1 Post

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The controversial problem of regulating prices to prevent inflation held No. 1 spot of the house calendar today and Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts said the Republican membership probably would meet Tuesday to map their strategy toward it.

Climaxing four days of hearings, the house rules committee granted preferential status yesterday to the price-control bill recommended by the banking committee and the Democratic leadership announced that the allotted two days of debate would begin Monday.

Under the procedure approved by the rules committee, the bill will be wide open for amendments as long as they are germane and Rep. Gore (D-Tenn.) said he would offer as a substitute his universal price control bill, stripped of the provision calling for recapture by the treasury of defense profits in excess of eight per cent.

The bill recommended by the banking committee would authorize a selective form of price control under which an administrator could establish ceilings for commodities whose prices got out of line with the rest of the price structure. It would not regulate wages. The Gore bill would freeze all prices, wages and rents as of a given date and permit necessary adjustments thereafter.

Repeal of Guffey Act Urged if UMW Continue to Strike

Sen. Connally Would Act; Lewis Meets Policy Board

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—John L. Lewis went before the policy committee of his United Mine Workers today to lay before them the White House proposals he has personally rejected for settling the captive coal mine strike.

The U. M. W. head was almost an hour late arriving. While the committee met to frame a formal reply to President Roosevelt's request that the union shop issue, which brought on the strike, be held in abeyance for the emergency or be submitted to arbitration, the C. I. O. convention in Detroit called on "all employers to accept the principle of the union shop" to promote industrial harmony.

Roosevelt agreed today to receive Chairman Norton (D-N.J.) of the house labor committee for a conference on labor legislation. Senator Connally (D-Tex.) proposed on Capitol Hill that congress repeal the Guffey coal act if the C. I. O.-U. M. W. unionists decline to end the coal strike.

Will Keep Union Shop
Four commercial coal operators associations sent word to the Defense Mediation Board today that they would continue to respect their union shop agreement with the United Mine Workers regardless of the outcome of the captive mine dispute.

The four were the Alabama Coal Operators negotiating committee, the Logan (W. Va.) Coal Operators Association, the Greenbrier (W. Va.) Operators Association and the New River (W. Va.) Association.

Connally told reporters he believed repeal of the miner-approved Guffey act, which sustains coal prices, would be justified if the miners turned down Roosevelt's suggestion.

"Congress has especially and financially aided the coal industry at the special insistence and request of the coal miners," the Texas senator declared. "All of us are paying more for coal than we would but for the existence of this act."

"Sacrifices Help Miners"
"We are making that sacrifice to help the coal miners. In our hour of danger and crisis, the coal miners are taking advantage of the government's critical posture to coerce and extort further privileges from the government."

"If the coal miners can't make some slight sacrifice for their country in time of peril, congress might well repeal the coal act." The Guffey act authorized the fixing of minimum and maximum prices. It was supported by the mine workers because it improved the operators' financial situation and enabled the miners to obtain a more favorable bargaining position, one result of which was the Appalachian agreement under which the CIO was granted the union shop in all but captive mines.

In another labor field, communications, there was a pause in a strike threat.

The Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, an independent union, considered an undisclosed settlement proposal set forth by federal conciliators. The union has demanded that the American Telephone & Telegraph

New Crisis Near in Legal Tangle Stopping Payroll

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A legal tangle that has tied up most Illinois state payrolls for ten days appeared heading toward a new crisis today.

Machinery for issuing at least 15,000 salary checks due Nov. 28 for civil service employees was at a complete standstill. The prospect arose, meanwhile, that a decision by the state Supreme court on litigation which led to the pay stoppage might not be handed down until the January term of court.

Finance officials said that, unless there was an unexpected development in the stalemate, employees due for payment late this month would have to wait for their salaries indefinitely.

Attorney General George F. Barrett issued the order to hold up the pay vouchers of all employees in civil service classifications. He declared an injunction granted by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Chicago, prohibiting payments to certain temporary civil service appointees, was so broad it was impossible to determine what employees could legally be paid.

Court In Recess
The Supreme court, when it reconvenes Monday after a Thanksgiving holiday adjournment, may give an indication when it will rule in an appeal taken by Barrett from Judge Finnegan's injunction order.

Barrett has asked the high court to expunge the injunction. In his answer to this plea, Judge Finnegan asked for time to file legal briefs. If the court grants such time—usually a week to ten days—the Nov. 28 payday will be passed before a court decision could be reached.

The current Supreme court term is scheduled to end Tuesday, Nov. 25. Unless there is a recess opinion, a rare occurrence for the court, the issue would go over until early January as far as the Supreme court is concerned.

Officials estimated that about 10,000 full-time employees holding state positions outside the scope of civil service would not be affected by the pay stop order. Some 15,000 additional part-time employees, mostly highway maintenance workers, also will receive their pay on schedule.

British Campaign in North Africa Is Proven Successful
(By The Associated Press)
Britain's long-besieged garrison at Tobruk was reported to have smashed out of the axis encirclement today while other British Imperial troops tightened the jaws of a steel trap on German armored forces east of Tobruk.

The garrison had been under siege since last April. British headquarters at Cairo said the Tobruk troops, cutting through axis lines to join major British forces striking in a counter-offensive from Egypt, were driving steadily to the southeast after capturing positions three miles outside their old perimeter of defenses.

Imperial headquarters said the Libyan desert campaign, which blazed into renewed action at dawn on Tuesday, was everywhere "developing to our advantage."

On the Russo-German war front, Adolf Hitler's field headquarters announced that German storm troops had captured Rostov-on-Don, vital northern gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, and at the same time nazi central front armies were reported to have launched a mighty drive on Moscow.

Russians Admit Some Reverses on Front Before Caucasus

On the Russo-German war front, Adolf Hitler's field headquarters announced that German storm troops had captured Rostov-on-Don, vital northern gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, and at the same time nazi central front armies were reported to have launched a mighty drive on Moscow.

Reds Admit Reverses
German advances at several points were acknowledged in soviet dispatches, which stressed the fury of the nazi onslaught, but the Red armies were said to have opened a determined counter-attack on the north anchor around Kalinin.

A German military spokesman, terming Rostov "the spigot to the Russian oil barrel," said capture of the big Don river port cut the direct flow of Caucasus oil into central Russia, and dealt a staggering blow to Russia's urgent need for oil.

Some estimates have cited the Caucasus as the source of 90 per cent of soviet oil supplies.

On the central front, soviet forces reaching London said Moscow's Red army defenders were facing a tempestuous assault—probably the biggest battle of the five-month-old campaign—with the nazis launching day-and-night attacks on all sectors of the 200-mile defense arc.

Russians Take New Stand
Soviet front-line correspondents said the Russians had fallen back under pressure of numerically superior forces after a 20-hour tank battle in the Volokolamsk sector.

Soldiers Offer to Dig Coal; Aid U. S.

Camp Forrest, Tenn., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Members of a field artillery battery at Camp Forrest today sent this telegram to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers Union:

"In response to your statement that 'soldiers of the United States Army won't dig coal,' we, the undersigned members of Battery C, 191st field artillery, 100 per cent strong, do hereby offer to dig coal at our present rate of pay and to donate the difference in that pay and the present average salary of a coal miner to the treasury of the United States for national defense."

The message was signed by 102 members of the battery, including 11 sergeants and 12 corporals.

Lewis, commenting earlier in the week upon the possibility that troops might be sent to take over the captive coal mines where the C. I. O. union is on strike, had said "the army is not going to shoot our people and the soldiers are not going to mine coal."

Phenomenal Rain Storm Gives RAF Decisive Help in Drive Into Libya

BY GODFREY ANDERSON
British Journalist

With British troops in Libya, Nov. 18.—(Delayed)—A phenomenal rain storm—one of the heaviest of years in the desert—battered German planes around and gave British fliers decisive help on this first day of the new drive into Libya.

Aerial scouts reported the development, which apparently accounted for the little air opposition seen by the force I accompanied. By nightfall we were 70 miles inside Libya from the Egyptian frontier and still going strong.

The rain swept the Libyan coastal regions Monday night. We could see the lightning flashes splitting the sky along the Mediterranean coast from the British assembly zone.

The water, pouring into the dry sand, converted airports into quivering masses that prevented nazi planes from taking off. The motors of Stuka dive-bombers roared angrily, but could not lift the craft.

The storm had spent its fury by the time it swept on eastward to the Egyptian border.

Dixon High School Students to Rule City on Dec. 6

The annual election campaigns which end in Dixon high school students becoming "city fathers" for a day, have started as part of the civic class projects at Dixon high school.

This year Miss Myrtle Scott and Marvin Winger of the faculty, are acting as advisors of the student elections with the purpose of acquainting the citizens of tomorrow with the commission form of government.

Campaign badges, posters and promises are again familiar by-plays of election time and primaries are scheduled for next Tuesday and the election on Friday, Nov. 28. The students will rule on Saturday, December 6.

Two candidates are seeking the office of mayor. They are Bernard Callahan and Lois Blimling.

For the offices of commissioner, with four to be elected, the candidates are: Virginia Dodd, Jane Goff, June Herridge, Glenyce Mel-lott, Kenneth Potts, Lorraine Pritchard, Paul Reynolds, Charles Scudder, Joan Smith, Bob Tennant, Jo Van Meter and Mary Louise Welch.

Police magistrate candidates are Dwight Fulmer, Wayne Needham, Harry Smith and Bill Thompson.

All other officers to fill the list of "rulers" are appointed by the elected students.

Although only senior students are permitted to be candidates, the entire student body goes to the polls at election time.

Only once in the nine year history of the project has there been a girl chosen as mayor. She was Rita Tofte, "mayoress" of about six years ago.

Draft Official Quits In Protest Against C. I. O. and John L. Lewis

Edwardsville, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Eugene F. Wahl, examining physician for Madison county selective service board No. 1, has submitted his resignation in protest against the strike of CIO miners.

In a letter to the draft board yesterday, Dr. Wahl said:

"I do not desire to have any further part in removing boys from gainful occupations and home environment and drafting them into the army at $21 per month, while Mr. John L. Lewis is permitted to dictate the labor policy of our government and deliberately delay and obstruct the output of necessary equipment so badly needed by our boys in the army."

Dr. Wahl was a captain in the medical corps during the World War.

U. S. Protests Arrest and Detention of the Reverend H. G. Woolf

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The United States has lodged a strong protest with the Italian government against the arrest and continued detention of the Rev. Hiram Gruber Woolf of Elmira, N. Y., rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church in Rome.

Secretary Hull instructed George Wadsworth, American charge d'affaires in Rome, to deliver the formal written protest, it was learned today, as soon as the embassy had made a full report of all known circumstances surrounding Mr. Woolf's arrest.

Wadsworth made verbal representations against the clergyman's arrest on Tuesday, soon after Italian police, allegedly under orders from the minister of the interior, had taken him into custody at the rectory of the church.

Soldier Steals Car in Rochelle; Plows Into Grocery Store

Ernest Powell, Dyersburg, Tenn., Now Prisoner in Ogle Co. Jail

(Telegraph Special Service)
Rochelle, Nov. 22.—Ernest Powell, 23, Camp Grant soldier whose home is in Dyersburg, Tenn., is a prisoner in the Ogle county jail at Ogle under bonds of $1,500, awaiting action of the January grand jury on charges of automobile theft, under which he was held by Police Magistrate George Banning of Rochelle Friday afternoon.

Powell's arrest, made by Sheriff James White and Deputy Harold Krouse, who were in Rochelle at the time, came as a result of an accident which befell him at 2:30 o'clock Friday morning after he had stolen an automobile belonging to Warren Page of Ashton from in front of a restaurant here, in which Page was eating. Page is said to have reported hearing his car's horn sounded and, looking up, to have seen it being driven away.

Crashed Into Store
The soldier's escapade came to an end when he failed to negotiate an "S" turn at the intersection of Tenth avenue and Seventh street, snapping off the blinker signal, and crashing into the front of a grocery store owned and operated by Oral Hall. The automobile, which ploughed half its distance into the store, shattered the door and a big plate glass window, wrecked an expensive built-in refrigerator, damaged a counter and scattered produce in all directions. Mr. Hall estimated his damage at between $1,000 and $1,200 in this, the sixth similar disaster which has befallen his place of business. His damage is covered by insurance.

Powell, who was treated for injuries here before being arraigned and taken to Ogle, also faces charges of drunken driving, which authorities say will be filed against him in Ogle county court.

Auto Hit By Train
In another accident here, a motorist, Bettner, route 2, Ogle, and his wife and a soldier hitch-hiker escaped injury when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a train.

While driving on Seventh street Bettner became so interested in the soldiers' conversation that he failed to see signal lights warning of the approach of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy passenger train.

Bettner drove onto the tracks before he realized the danger. He attempted to drive down the tracks ahead of the train, but failed and it hit the automobile.

Fortunately the train was slowing down for the station two blocks away and they escaped injury.

Doubt Confession of Train Wrecking
Susanville, Calif., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Sheriff Olin S. Johnson, checking a young railroad worker's story that he wrecked the $2,000,000 streamliner City of San Francisco more than two years ago, planned to take him today to the scene of the derailment which killed 24 persons and injured 108.

Johnson identified the section hand as Clarence J. Alexander, 24, Cleo Springs, Okla.

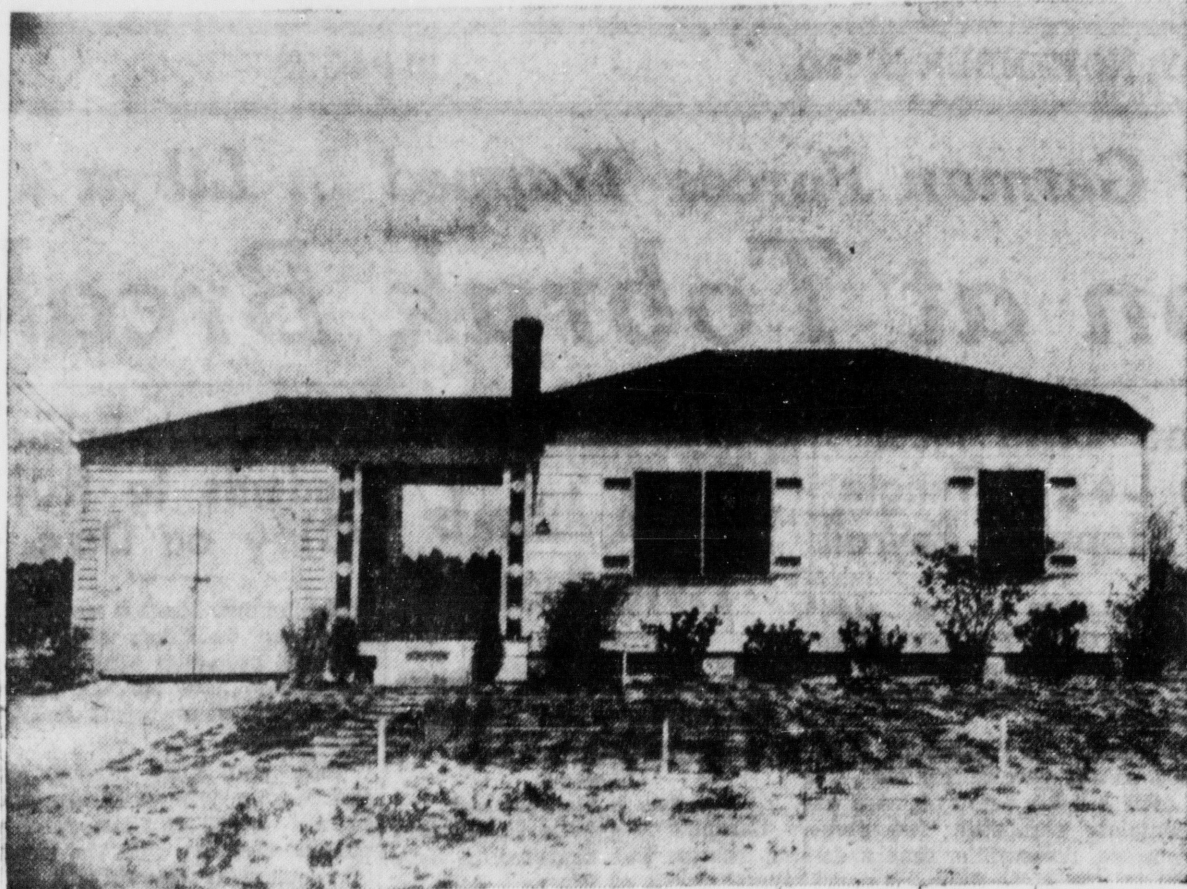

"He says he wrecked the train, and sticks to it even after hours of questioning, and being told the penalty," the sheriff said. "Maybe he did, and maybe he didn't. I have my doubts about his story. It may be just another screwball yarn."

Even Low-Cost Home May Be Attractive and Contribute to Neighborhood Growth

Houses such as this, although of very low cost, are attractive enough to contribute to satisfactory neighborhood or municipal growth. The house is well-planned and provides complete facilities for a family of average size. The exterior appearance of the house will become more attractive after the plants and lawn have had an opportunity to attain growth. Valued at $2,900, this property was financed with a mortgage of $2,600 insured under Title VI of the National Housing Act, which is designed to facilitate financing of privately built defense housing. Cost of the property will vary in other localities.

Early Farmers Produced Many Articles of Trade

Thousands of barrels of flour were sent to the New Orleans market from Illinois farms during the years 1746-47, according to the Illinois Writers' Project, WPA. In 1748 a trading post and fort, called Fort Prudhomme, was established on the Mississippi below the Falls of the Ohio. This became a great shipping center. Early historians comment on the astonishing quantity and variety of Illinois products. They included flour, corn, hams, pickled pork, beans, beef, wax, cotton, tallow, leather, tobacco, lead, iron, copper, buffalo wool, venison, poultry, bear's grease and furs.

Questions and Answers

Q. Can I use the same kind of linoleum for bathroom walls that is used on floors?

A. Floor linoleum is not recommended for walls. Instead, use one of the linoleum products manufactured especially for use on walls. These products can be applied to plaster, plywood, or non-insulating wallboard. Walls should be clean and free from any surface irregularities which might show through the covering.

Q. The ground in the vicinity where I plan to build drains fairly well, but several of the nearby houses have damp basement walls after a heavy rain. How can I be assured of a dry basement?

A. Since water conditions apparently are not severe, damp-proofing of the basement walls can be effected by means of a cement plaster coat, at least one-half inch thick, applied on the outside of the wall and covered with a coat of hot tar or asphalt. At the footing extend the plaster coat to the outside of the footing, rounding the angle to form a cove. If your site is so located that it will receive considerable water after a heavy rain, it will be advisable to lay drain tile around the house at the base of the footing. Drain tile should be connected with a sewer or dry well in order to dispose of the surplus water.

Q. Can brick be laid during the cold winter months? What precautions should be taken to insure a good job?

A. If materials and the finished work are properly protected there is no reason why winter construction cannot be entirely satisfactory. When the temperature drops below 40 degrees F. the brick, water, and sand should be heated. Brick should not be moistened before laying. Use only enough lime to make the mortar workable. Protect the finished brickwork from freezing for at least 48 hours.

Q. Can plastic paint be used

Special Services

The Misses Edith Campbell and Ena Fanson, West Coast Gospel team, will hold services at the Foursquare Chapel, 607 West Seventh street for the next few weeks. Both ordained ministers, these young ladies have travelled widely in evangelistic work and have enjoyed splendid results. They were assistant pastors for several years to Dr. H. W. Jeffries, pastor of the Portland Foursquare church, a church with 1,800 members.

Miss Fanson will give illustrated talks to the children with the aid of a flannelgraph board. Both young ladies will give musical numbers.

The services will be held at 7:45 o'clock every night, except Monday and Saturday.

over oil paint or plaster? Will it flake off?

A. Most plastic paints can be applied to any surface, either new or old, to which paint or varnish will adhere. This type of paint is highly flexible and, properly applied, should not flake or peel.

More than 1000 new chemical compounds, including everything from plastics to explosives to medicines, have been developed from the nitroparaffins, combinations of nitrogen with various constituents of natural gas.

Mothers Sending Cakes to Soldier Sons Are Shocked

Fort Jackson, S. C., Nov. 19—(AP)—It leaked out today that some mothers who have been sending Sonny—"the dear boy is in the army, you know"—a home-made cake have been getting a bit of a shock lately.

It seems that some of the boys, who are learning to be army cooks, have been turning the tables on mamma, and have sent home a cake, or maybe it was a pie, that they baked themselves.

That mamma hasn't said very much about this is understandable to Sergeant Marvin Austin, Atlanta's hard-boiled gift to the regular army's culinary department. It is sort of calling her hand.

Driving Force
At present, Sergeant Austin, a short, wiry, lively man of 47 years is the driving force—and there is no doubt about his being a driving force—at the army's cooks' training cooks for 19 years.

He has been training cooks for 19 years.

Since February, 1,500 cooks and 300 mess sergeants have graduated from Sergeant Austin's stoves.

At nearby tables the student cooks in white aprons and caps were eating their own cooking. The menu consisted of baked ham, lima beans, peas, mashed potatoes and lettuce with dressing, plenty of bread and butter, coffee served in deep soup bowls, canned milk, blackberry pie—and nobody was seen to scorn the crust.

Doris Raney and Lawrence Palmer Are Wed at Church

Yellow chrysanthemums and ferns decorated the auditorium of the Rock Falls Congregational church on Thanksgiving Day, for an afternoon wedding ceremony, in which Miss Doris Raney of Rock Falls became the bride of Lawrence Palmer, son of the Darrell Palmers of Dixon. The Rev. LeRoy Norris Fielding performed the double ring ceremony before a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Pendleton Moore, organist, played a prelude of nuptial music while the guests were assembling, concluding with the Lohengrin wedding march. Clarence Church was soloist, singing "O Perfect Love."

Mrs. Thomas Sutton and Edward Rinehart, both of Dixon, attended the couple.

Black accessories were chosen by the bride for her beige gray wool street dress, and she carried yellow roses. Mrs. Sutton was dressed in blue, with a shoulder corsage of pompons.

A reception was held at the church, following the ceremony, with Mrs. Hazel Cruse and Mrs. Francis Jennings in charge. A two-tiered cake, and yellow chrysanthemums and candles appointed the refreshment table. The Misses Mildred Eberle and Betty Heaton served.

Afterward, a Thanksgiving dinner was served in honor of the bride and groom at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Woodruff, 401 Second avenue, Rock Falls.

Mrs. Palmer is a daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Raney of Rock Falls, and was graduated from Rock Falls Township high school. She attended Northern Illinois State Teachers' college in DeKalb for a year, and is now a student at Lorene's School of Beauty Culture. She is a well known musician, and has appeared frequently on programs as vocalist and instrumentalist.

DOROTHY CHAPTER, O. E. S., HAS INSTALLATION; SOME 250 GUESTS ARE PRESENT

Tall white tapers in three-branch crystal candelabra, and masses of white chrysanthemums, with accents of silver glorified the lodge room at Brinton Memorial Masonic temple last evening, when recently elected officers of Dorothy chapter, No. 371, were installed.

The emblematic altar cloth of gleaming white satin and the white altar Bible in an impressive setting of flowers and candlelight greeted the view of between 250 and 300 members and guests who witnessed the public ceremony of the seating of officers for 1941-42. Guests were present from Freeport, Polo, Rockford, Rochelle, Pearl City, Oregon, Mt. Morris, Sterling, Rock Falls, and Belvidere chapters, including the associate grand patron, Arthur L. Johnson, and Mrs. Johnson of Rockford.

During a 15-minute organ prelude, played by Mrs. Dorothy Engel of Sterling, Shirley Jean Barrowman and Roberta Espy, wearing white formal frocks, entered the chapter room and lighted nearly 40 white tapers that shone down on the five points of the star, and on white chrysanthemums in a silver bowl on the piano, and a large basket of the mums before the pedestal in the east.

Shirley Jean, whose dress was designed with a hoop skirt and quaint, off-the-shoulder neckline, is the 11-year-old daughter of the new worthy patron and worthy matron, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Barrowman. Roberta's aunt, Mrs. Mazie Hoberg, was installed as secretary last evening, and her uncle, Grover Hoberg, is the new sentinel.

Appears Here in Role of Macbeth

James Hendrickson

Mr. Hendrickson, who will be seen in the title role of Macbeth in a matinee performance of the Shakespearean play of that name in the Dixon high school auditorium, Wednesday, Nov. 26, spent his early years in Kansas City, where so many of the now prominent stage and screen luminaries discovered their Thespian abilities, including Jean Harlow, William Powell, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery, Ginger Rogers, Gladys Swarthout, Marion Tally, Walt Disney and many others.

His stage aspirations started to formulate in his high school days in Kansas City, where the school Shakespeare club was a lively part of the curriculum. On one memorable occasion, the club presented Twelfth Night, and William Powell, one of Mr. Hendrickson's schoolmates played the Malvolio.

The mutual interest of Hendrickson and Powell in the theatre encouraged a warm friendship which has lasted through the years. Later, both attended the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York.

That period was particularly glamorous in the theatre's history. Every city boasted a local stock company, with visiting road shows from New York and Shakespearean stars touring with their repertoires of the classics affording additional opportunities of seeing the best that an opulent theatre has to offer.

After completion of his training at the American Academy, Hendrickson was unusually fortunate in almost immediately obtaining an engagement with Fritz Leiber, who was starting his own Shakespearean company. After a season with Mr. Leiber, the paths of Hendrickson and Powell crossed again, when they both appeared in "Spanish Love" on Broadway. Afterward, Mr. Powell left for Hollywood to enter pictures, and Mr. Hendrickson continued with more Shakespeare on the legitimate stage.

Mr. Hendrickson later accepted an engagement with the Shakespeare company of Robert Mantell. At the end of the second season, the tour ended abruptly in Columbus, Ohio, due to the serious illness of Mr. Mantell. En route back to New York came the plan to organize the present company, under the leadership of Mr. Hendrickson and Miss Bruce, who was also a member of the Mantell company.

This season is the fourteenth annual tour of the James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce company.

The advance ticket sale indicates that there will be a capacity attendance for next Wednesday's program, which is to include an evening performance of Hamlet. The English department of Dixon high school is sponsoring the Dixon appearance of the company.

DR. SHOOP'S LECTURE IS CANCELLED

The lecture which Dr. Shoop, principal of Crossmore school, was to have delivered tomorrow evening at Frances Shimer college, Mt. Carroll, has been cancelled, because of illness of the speaker. W. Miller; song, "God Bless America."

*Optional at Extra Cost

MOST EVERYONE knows Hydra-Matic Drive* is a work saver. But few realize that it's a gas saver, too. Here are the facts: Hydra-Matic is engineered with four speeds forward. That permits slower engine speeds. In fourth speed, for example, 1,000 engine revolutions will propel your Olds Hydra-Matic 2,130 feet as against 1,700 feet for a similar car with standard transmission. Hence, you get more mileage on gas—or, conversely, save gas on any given trip. Then, too, Hydra-Matic's automatic shifting prevents lags and consequent waste of fuel. The net result—gasoline savings of 10 to 15 per cent. Why not drive the easy Hydra-Matic way—in a new Olds B-44—and be money ahead on gas!

DEFENSE COMES FIRST WITH OLDSMOBILE!

Oldsmobile's great productive capacities are devoted first to the manufacture of artillery shell and airplane cannon. A Thought For Today

God thundereth marvelously with his voice; great things doeth he, which we cannot comprehend. Job 37:5.

He mounts the storm and walks upon the wind.—Pope.

Pinning Down the Propaganda

Back in 1938, remembering the days preceding entrance into World War I, the United States passed a law requiring the registration with the State Department of agents of foreign governments who proposed to spread propaganda here.

Some people had over-enthusiastic expectations of what such a law would do. They thought it would halt all foreign propaganda. Naturally it didn't. It was never intended to.—Nevertheless, it did furnish a hook on which to catch a few propagandists who thought to ignore it. It accomplished something of its purpose, and it did some good.

Now it is proposed by Senator McKellar of Tennessee to tighten up the act and extend it. He would require such propagandists not only to register, but to label plainly all their propaganda, so that those who receive it would be able to evaluate it properly. He would also extend the law to apply to foreign propagandists using this country as a base for sending propaganda into other American countries. That last would implement decisions made by all the 20 American republics at the Panama meeting of 1940, when all resolved to protect one another in this way. Administration would be by the Justice Department rather than by the State Department as at present.

Even if the McKellar plan is passed, it would not eliminate all propaganda of foreign governments. No single law that could be proposed or passed could conceivably do this. But it would furnish more hooks to catch more of the slimier eels swimming in the propaganda sea, and it might tend to minimize the effect of some of the more obvious forms of propaganda.

Generally speaking, anything which restricts the free communication of man with man is bad. But here we are faced, not with such communication, but with organized efforts of one form of super-nationalism to reach out and envelop the citizens of another state.

There seems to be no way to meet and check these moves of exaggerated nationalism except by at least temporary nationalistic restrictions.

Whether fire is in all cases the best means of fighting fire, we wouldn't know, but one thing certain is that it is necessary to fight—no fire was ever put out by withdrawing to a discreet distance and watching it burn.

Not a "Stooge" Court

Those people who feared that the appointment of almost the entire U. S. Supreme Court by a single President might turn it into a sort of rubber-stamp or "stooge" court may be reassured by recent decisions. They show such consistent splitting in making decisions as to suggest that there is far from a single point of view on the court.

On the most recent decision day, two decisions were split, 5-4 and 6-3, and on the previous decision day there were two 5-4 decisions and another 6-3 split. Every justice has entered at least one dissent since the present term of court began, though it is only a few weeks old.

This is not to suggest that split decisions are desirable or necessarily a good thing in themselves. It is only to suggest that this is not the sort of thing one would expect from a court reputedly "packed," and hence supposedly committed to a single and more or less automatic point of view.

Steel-Saving Licenses

Everybody has seen garages lined inside with old auto license plates tacked up on the wall. But only in America. No other country would have been able to afford such a prodigious waste of sheet metal.

They'll be rarer in future. Five states already have plans, according to the Federation of Tax Administrators, to eliminate the need for new license plates next year or soon. California will fasten "cover strips" over this year's plates with the new data; only new registrants will receive new plates, saving between $100,000 and $130,000, in addition to the saving in precious sheet steel. Delaware has plates with changeable inserts for dates. Kentucky is considering a five-year license plate, and so on. By next year it's not impossible that many other states will be considering plans to save steel and money by new license plate devices. Another way to save would be to get the dangerous drivers off the streets entirely.

Twelve Billion Years to Go

The old saying that the first hundred years are the hardest is put right in its place by a little free-hand estimating recently done on the age of the sun. The sun, hazards Dr. George Gamow, professor of physics at George Washington University, is a mere youngster of some two billion years, and ought to live to the ripe old age of 12 billion. The age of our own earth is also about two billion years, he calculates, not specifying how many years remain to it.

Nevertheless, to those who are irked by the apparent slowness of progress, it would appear that on this kind of a cosmic scale of measurement, there's plenty of time.

John L. Lewis holds every branch of the federal government in Washington in his vest pocket.—Congressman E. E. Cox, Georgia Democrat.

Baruch Warns That Congress Must Act To Control Prices

Renews Advocacy For Over-All Rather Than Selective Measure

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The man who directed this country's World War production told the house rules committee Friday that unless congress acts immediately to control prices, the nation will be in a "situation acutely dangerous."

Bernard M. Baruch, World War head of the war industries board, who saw the inflationary impact of wartime spending at first hand, renewed his advocacy of "over-all" price control legislation rather than the "selective" type recommended by the administration.

The rules committee, making an unusual exception to its usual custom of hearing only members of congress, asked Baruch to appear in person. The committee is considering a measure by Chairman Steagall (D-Ala.) of the house banking committee for legislative right-of-way for a bill to establish the limited, "selective" type of price control together with a request by Rep. Gore (D-Tenn.) that his "over-all" control measure be made in order as a substitute.

"Due to the depth of my conviction we should protect our people against inflation, a characteristic of all wars," Baruch said, "I believe protection should be established, not here and there, but everywhere. To me that means the over-all bill."

Cautioning the legislators against confusing price inflation with currency inflation, Baruch said the former already had started here and made five suggestions which he said would furnish protection against both evils. They were:

"1. That the congress give immediate consideration to a price control bill.

"2. That such consideration be based upon as wide a front as possible, which means the development of control that shall guarantee a sufficiency, at minimum prices of the three necessities of life—shelter, food and clothing.

"3. That in setting up price limits, there must be controls established on rents, on agricultural schedules and on wages—on everything.

"4. That all segments of society must be treated equally and profiteering eliminated. We must really take the profits out of war as we have promised to do for so long, and as I was among the first to urge.

"5. That control of prices must march along with a sound taxation program; profit and money control; increase of production of raw materials and goods; substitution; standardization and simplification; conversion of facilities; subcontracting to use small as well as big establishments."

There are plenty of people who could be interested in an inexpensive form of job insurance.

If I were a young man hunting for a job, I'd get that insurance. I'll do it by taking a job with a firm that has a long-range, well planned, appealing advertising program. Every employee of a firm with such an advertising program should thank his lucky stars, for advertising is the best possible job insurance.

Advertising sells goods and service—in volume. Properly done on a large enough scale, it sells enough goods to keep employees of the firm working at top speed.

If you work in a store or factory, you know that advertising finds buyers for the things you sell or make. You know that products must be sold before more can be made.

With but few exceptions, employment depends in the final analysis upon selling. Selling on any appreciable scale always depends upon advertising.

Directly or indirectly your personal welfare and mine depend upon the successful continuance of advertising. That's why owners of business property insert clauses in their leases stipulating that the renter shall spend a certain amount of money on advertising.

If business slows down, so do we all—and the force that keeps business running at top speed is advertising. It's interested in our personal welfare, regardless of our line of work, we're unalterably bound to the cause of advertising.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Nov. 21.—Blood-quicken rumors have come in upon these Kurusu-Roosevelt negotiations suggesting the Japs are now ready to move in on Thailand at any moment. First official hint arrived on the heels of the Japanese peace emissary (who bore no peace plan.) Such an invasion would bring the British Malay troops into conflict with the Japs, no doubt, and eventually involve the U. S. Asiatic fleet.

Our officials suspected the rumors were part of the clumsy Jap diplomatic pressure game, and declined to be disturbed. But they immediately began preparations to send certain very valuable war material to Thailand just in case it should be called for. Lend-lease aid will be granted in event of invasion.

This is only one of the official rumors that have disturbed the fragile Japanese-American negotiations. Such stuff seems to have become an expected phase of high-pressure diplomacy. Yet both the rumors and the negotiations have been tempered by the solid inner conviction here that there will be no war—and no peace.

War just does not make sense from either the Japanese or American standpoint. Our main commitment is in the Atlantic, against Hitler. We need our fleet for that. While we talk roundly of our Far Eastern interests, there are only two things we are trying to do there now:

(1) Keep Vladivostok open for aid to Stalin (the Persian railroad will haul little for another year yet) and the Archangel-Moscow railroad may be severed in a few weeks, leaving Vladivostok as the only port of entry for American goods, and (2) Keep the Burma road open for aid to China. War would close Vladivostok almost automatically, and threaten the Burma route seriously.

So also with Japan. While she howls "encirclement" and pretends to be an axis partner her real interest is to get the raw materials from us and Britain to sustain her economic life. She is only trying diplomatically to break the blockade, by threats and negotiation. Hitler is too far away to do Japan any good—economically or otherwise.

War would only double the economic trouble Japan is now in. The blockade would be tightened. Without oil and munitions she can not conduct a successful fight against a major power like the U. S. Her fleet would have to hide in home waters. She cannot even invade the Dutch East Indies past those British and U. S. bases in Singapore and the Philippines. While peace may be impossible, war would be suicide for her and foolish for us.

Our Russian aid is taking a tedious new route. It goes by ship to Murmansk (Arctic warm water port, open all winter), thence south by rail to Kandalaksha, a White Sea port, then by Archangel, and finally down the railroad to Volodga, where it is distributed. The distribution so far has largely been in the direction of Omsk, where the new Russian armies are forming. The trip takes weeks.

The nazis are very close to Kandalaksha. If either that point or Volodga falls, the route is lost.

Churchill thinks he is winning the second battle of the Atlantic. Naval authorities here are inclined to believe he may be right, but perhaps a little ahead of himself. It is true Hitler's latest sub offensive has not taken a great toll and has lost many submarines, but the battle is not over.

Germany probably has more subs today than at the start of the war. She started with 120 medium and 180 building. By authoritative calculation, she has lost about 140, and has put 180 additional new ones in service. Thus while she had about 300 built and building at the beginning, she has about 340 today. Only half these are in operation at any one time, when means daily fighting in the sea.

Another one of those intramural defense scraps is on, this time between oil coordinators Davies (for Ickes) and the Maritime Committee. Both say they are in charge of distributing the tankers which Britain is returning.

The job would nominally fall to a tanker committee composed of Davies, chairman, one representative of the Maritime Committee and three naval officers, but the M. C. does not like its minority position on that committee.

Since the scrap broke, Roosevelt has named (without announcement) another committee, to handle oil service for foreign nations. Its Secretary will be Ickes and Chairman Land of the Maritime Commission. This committee will allocate oil, and presumably also tankers for transportation abroad. On this committee, Mr. Ickes is one—and alone.

Discover Vitamin C May Help in Syphilis Medical Treatment

Chicago, (AP)—Physicians reported today new evidence that ordinary Vitamin C can help in the medical treatment of syphilis. The Vitamin C, or ascorbic acid, may solve the problem of bad reactions in persons especially sensitive to the anti-syphilis drugs derived from arsenic.

This was reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of Health, and Dr. Hans C. S. Aron, Regina S. Greenebaum, Chester J. Farmer and Arthur F. Abt, all of Chicago.

The number of people sensitive to the arsenic drugs is still considerable, the reactions ranging from mild upsets to death. The doctors found that the reactions apparently were due to the formation of poisonous matter when the drugs were exposed to oxygen in the blood.

Oxidation Prevented
Even when in contact with air, solutions of the drugs turn a brownish black as oxidation products are formed, but this oxidation was prevented for 48 hours when part arsenic acid was added to three parts of the drug. The same oxidation occurred when patches soaked in the solutions were applied to the skin, but it was completely prevented when the vitamin was added. The doctors, after patch tests on 115 patients and other studies, concluded that the Vitamin C promises to assist in preventing reactions to these anti-syphilis drugs in the great majority of patients.

OVERLIN BEATS HOSTAK IN RING

New York, Nov. 22—(AP)—Seldom has any ranking fighter received a more thorough, more humiliating beating than was handed out to Al Hostak, former N. B. A. middleweight champion, by the veteran Ken Overlin last night at Madison Square Garden. Making his debut in New York, the Seattle, Wash., battler was completely outclassed, losing all but possibly one round of 10. Overlin, former New York State middleweight king, had astonishingly easy picking.

Round after round, it was the same. Given an artificial spur by an oxygen tank in his corner, Hostak answered every bell by storming out and trying to knock the wily Overlin's head off. For about a minute, usually less, he fought furiously, swinging wildly and mostly missing.

Beaton Like a Drum Then, suddenly he would wilt, and for the remaining two minutes Overlin would beat him like a drum. The decision was unanimous among the three officials. The crowd of 8,000 only groaned its opinion of the fight as a whole.

Toward the last both men bled from small gashes near their left eyes, the only visible damage. There was no knockdown. Hostak threw 40 rights that might have chilled Overlin, but all of them whistled past the veteran's left ear.

Overlin weighed 163½, Hostak 162. The other 10-rounder saw young Kid McCoy of Detroit score a unanimous decision over Mike Kaplan of Boston.

McCoy earned a shot at Ray Robinson for December 12, with the winner of that one promised a bout with Welterweight Champion Freddy Cochrane sooner or later.

FAREWELL TO ZUPPKE

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 22—(AP)—It was farewell to Bob Zuppke today as Illinois, playing its final game under the little Dutchman who has been its coach for 29 years, battled Northwestern in a Big Ten game. Zuppke resigned his post at Illinois early this week.

The Wildcats, losers by one point decisions to Minnesota and Notre Dame and by seven points to Michigan, were favorites in this last game of the season but there was the hint of an upset by an Illini squad battling to win the last one for Zuppke.

IOWA VS. NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 22—(AP)—Iowa's Hawkeyes, bruised from last week's 34-13 beating by Minnesota, looked forward to an easier time today against the Nebraska Cornhuskers, loser in five straight games.

Iowa, which has finished with a 500 or better rating each of its previous two seasons under Dr. Eddie Anderson, needed a victory to break even for the 1941 season. The Hawkeyes had won three and lost four games previous to today.

James Conzelman To Speak at Annual Gyro Grid Feast

DIXON SQUADS TO BE GUESTS AT 11th ANNUAL BANQUET

Coach of Cardinals Pro Football Team To Be Guest Speaker

James Conzelman, coach and vice president of the Chicago Cardinals professional football team, will be the guest speaker when the Gyro club entertains the high school football squads here next Thursday night.

Known as one of America's greatest humorists and after-dinner speakers, Conzelman has had a brilliant career in a variety of fields.

This year's banquet for the 1941 football teams is the 16th annual event at which the Gyros have been hosts. Heading the banquet committee this year is Ken Detweiler as chairman with Willard Jones, Eldon Myers and Leo Miller as his aides. The feast will be held at the Loveland Community House starting at 6:30 and George Lindquist is to be the toastmaster. Ray Wilbur is the club's new president.

Colorful Figure

To sports writers throughout the country "Jimmy" Conzelman is one of the most colorful figures in the annals of football, a man who as both player and coach has wrought miracles. To sports fans and to thousands of others with only a mild interest in athletics, Conzelman is raconteur extraordinaire. He's met and held his own on the gridiron with such stars as Red Grange, Jim Thorpe and "The Four Horsemen". He coached a professional team into a national Championship (the Providence Steam Rollers in 1928) and his Washington university teams won three Missouri Valley titles. He is now coach and vice president of the Chicago Cardinals, and in addition, is a sports columnist for King Features Syndicate, whose articles appear in scores of newspapers throughout the country.

Great as these achievements in the field of sports are, it is his amazing versatility, his talents in other field, that has rounded out the personality of the man who has come to be recognized as a great after-dinner speaker.

Is a Songwriter

Conzelman is a songwriter with ten published songs to his credit, including such one-time hits as "Fool's Paradise" and "What a Baby." He played the part of the coach in the St. Louis Municipal Opera's production of "Good News" and is slated for another role there soon. He's sold art in Greenwich Village, been a press agent and edited a suburban weekly newspaper. He plays the piano, the banjo and the guitar and has directed dance bands.

As an author, Conzelman has written several articles for "The Saturday Evening Post" and one, entitled "That's Football For You," was credited by critics as being the best football article of 1937.

"Jimmy" was born in St. Louis, went to the public school there and then on to Washington university. World War I interrupted his college career and he entered the Great Lakes Naval Training Station where he became the mid-weight boxing champion, unbeaten in 26 fights at 160 pounds.

Back at Washington university in 1920, he was named all-western quarterback. Then eleven years of professional football.

He started with the old Staleys, one of the first national professional football teams, in Decatur, later to become the Chicago Bears.

From Chicago Conzelman went to Milwaukee, where he doubled as quarterback and coach for the Milwaukee Badgers. His pro grid trail led to Detroit where he bought his own franchise. Two years later he sold it for $50 (it's now worth a quarter of a million) and moved on to Providence where he coached and played for four years. In 1928 his Providence Steam Rollers won the national title.

In 1932 Conzelman returned to college football as coach at his alma mater. In the eight years that followed, his Washington university teams won three Missouri Valley Conference championships, the only ones ever won by the institution. Last year Conzelman went to the Cardinals last year.

OHIO STATE VS. MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 22—Ohio State and Michigan—two football teams still clinging to the shred of hope that the Western Conference co-championship hinged on the outcome—met today in the 38th renewal of their series before a sell out crowd of 85,753.

While each team has lost only one game the Wolverines ruled a favorite at odds as long as 2 to 1 to conquer the Buckeyes for the fourth straight year.

To the winner goes runner-up honors in the Big Ten or a share of the title should undefeated Minnesota fall before Wisconsin.

Michigan entered the game at full strength, but injuries to full-back Jack Graf, tackles Leon Schoenbaum and Jim Daniell and Guard Lyn Huston—all regulars—hampered Ohio State.

FOR OLD OAKEN BUCKET

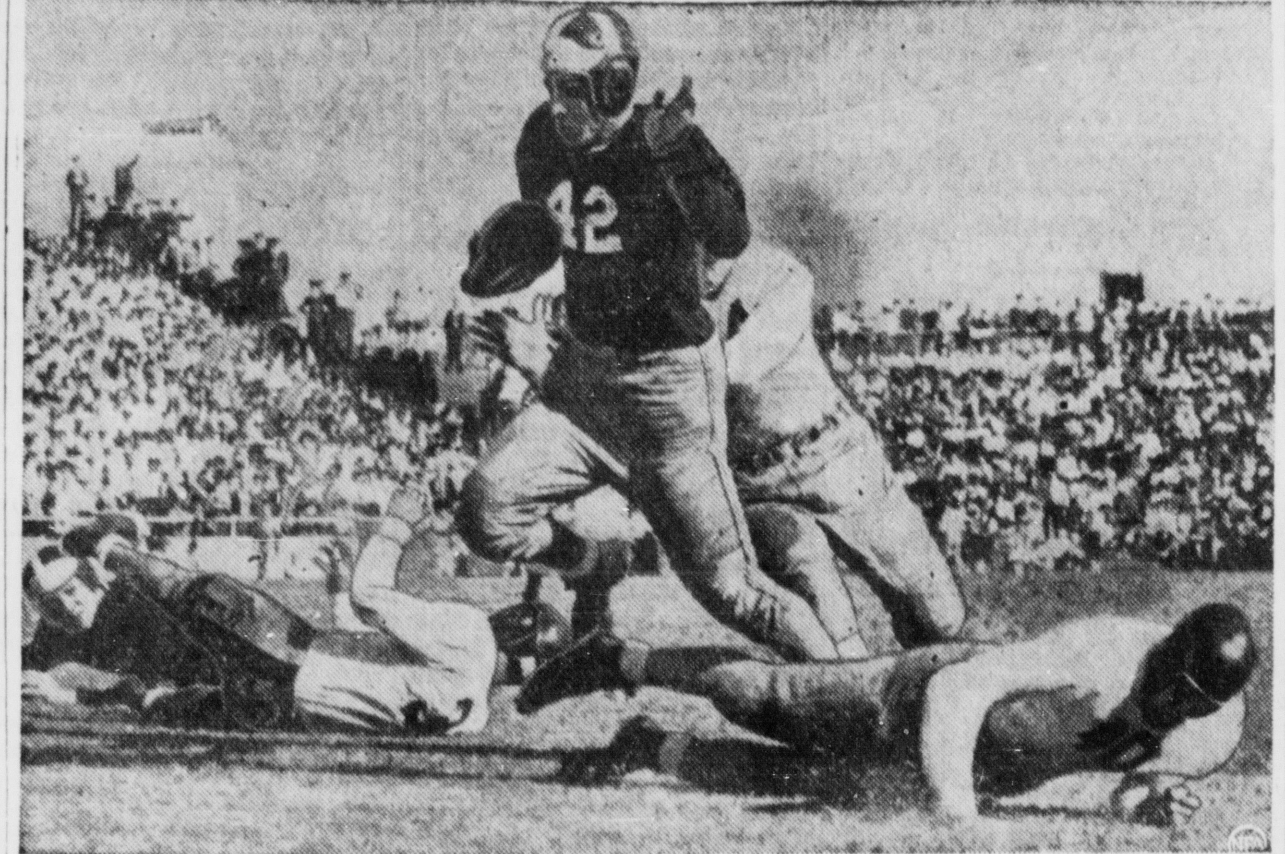

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 22—(AP)—Indiana, refreshed by an idle day last Saturday which gave it two weeks to prepare for this game, clashed with Purdue today over the old oaken bucket, symbol of football supremacy between the two schools. The Hoosiers sought their first Big Ten victory, the Boilermakers their second.

Playoff Ties Two Ladies' Bowling Teams for Fifth

Better late than never was the theory of the Villiger Drug Store bowlers who last night defeated Kathryn Beard's team three games in a postponed Ladies' League match. The victory boosted the druggists up to a tie for fifth place with the dress shop team, Lorene Beauty and Dixon Cafe. All have won 14 and lost 13 to date.

In last night's match Huyett paced the winners with a 460 series and Smith rolled 453 for the losers with Klein and Shawger one pin behind with 452.

Windup Grid Tilts Last Night Bring Quota of Surprises

New York, Nov. 22—(AP)—A handful of college games added a few finishing touches to the fading football season last night but even that meager program produced its quota of surprises.

Although Miami, Fla., University has won seven of eight previous games, it was the underdog that came through to beat South Carolina, a Southern Conference club that boasted victories over North Carolina, Clemson and Furman and a tie with Wake Forest.

South Carolina scored a touchdown in the opening period, but missed the kick for extra point. Miami came from behind with a second-quarter touchdown and Joe Petroski kicked the winning point for a 7-6 decision.

PACIFIC LUTHERAN FALLS FROM UNBEATEN CLASS

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 22—(AP)—Pacific Lutheran, the colorful little giant of Pacific northwest football has fallen from its pinnacle of the gridiron select.

Undefeated and untied in 18 games over a three-year span, Pacific Lutheran lost to Portland University, 20 to 6, last night and saw visions of a possible post-season bowl invitation washed out. Pacific Lutheran, which won three successive Washington Intercollegiate conference titles, is a co-educational school of less than 400 students.

"The policy of Secretary Knox in withholding information as to the number of submarines we have sunk displays a lack of confidence in the American people," Wheeler declared.

"Not at War," Says Nye

"They are the same tactics used by Hitler and Stalin, who do not let the people know the facts," he said. "I do not see how the administration can expect the people to have confidence in its war policy when by its every action it indicates that neither the congress nor the people are to be trusted with information. The American people are entitled to know whether American boys are being sent into aggressive naval warfare without a declaration of war by congress."

Van Nuys said he could see no reason for the navy to withhold announcements of U-boat sinkings. He said it was not a valid argument that such a policy would keep Berlin in the dark as to the whereabouts of German submarines and added:

"When the American people have sent their boys to sea to fight, when they have sent their treasure to Great Britain, then they are entitled to all the facts as they develop."

Nye told newsmen that "after all, we are not at war, and the country has a right to know."

Thousands of State Workers Crowd in Overflow Quarters

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)— Tales of the conversion of Washington theater galleries, hotel lobbies and private homes into office space for the expanding federal government have caused scarcely a raised eyebrow among the thousands of Illinois state workers who also go about their duties in "overflow" quarters.

There are no less than 18 divisions of the state government housed in rented spaces in Springfield, and some 40 units of state administrative machinery work in widely scattered Chicago offices.

An example of state activity carried on in makeshift rented quarters is the recently transferred administrative headquarters of the state highway police.

Now Occupy Home

Formerly located in the state armory building, the police offices now occupy the walled gray stone mansion which was the home of the late Col. Henry Davis. The landmark residence, some ten blocks south and east of the statehouse, now contains desks of stenographers in what used to be its lounge and dining rooms, filing cabinets in its spacious sunporch, and record harts in its bedrooms.

Several other government branches are housed in former residences in Springfield. Most of the rented office space, however, is located in private office buildings in the business center of the city, several blocks away from the statehouse.

In Chicago, most of the state-rented space is in office buildings in or near the loop, but there are such unusual quarters as those of the automobile department in a former store building and the motor inspection division which uses 2,100 square feet in the navy pier.

$410,000 Annual Rental

In all, the state pays an annual rental bill of nearly $410,000 to private property owners. There is no accurate estimate of the total floor space rented by the state. However, large space renters are the department of labor which uses approximately 155,000 square feet in Chicago, and the sales tax division with 28,000 square feet of space in one of Springfield's downtown office buildings.

The regular state buildings in Springfield—the Statehouse, the Centennial building, the Armory and the Archives building—are overcrowded by office activities. Legislative offices and committee rooms, usually kept reserved even when the general assembly is not in session, have been pressed into service.

The secretary of state's office has overflowed into the Archives building, designed to house only state records and documentary research rooms.

The general assembly this year passed legislation creating an Illinois Public Building with power to issue bonds for the construction of new state office buildings in cities of 75,000 population or more.

Hampered by Ban

The commission, heard by Governor Green, has been hampered by a federal priorities ban on non-essential construction. Purchase of an office building in Chicago is being considered but officials said no suitable structure is available in Springfield.

Factors in the expansion and overflow of state activities have been growth of a large state selective service headquarters, which have pushed state government units from the state armory building in Capital, increase in auditing necessitated by the institution of cigarette and oil production taxes, expansion of automobile and drivers' license departments, establishment of a new department of public safety, and addition of several other new units, such as the oil control division, to the government.

vision, was the first of the group summoned for trial today. Charges against him included that he "took an active part in the management of a political campaign;" that he "directed, supervised and permitted" employees under his supervision to type and distribute campaign literature; and that he "did coerce other employees" to contribute two per cent of their salaries to a political campaign fund.

Peoria Trials Next

Lawrence V. Meloy, attorney prosecuting the cases, said that charges in all the cases included allegations that the employees engaged actively in the management of the 1940 state election campaign, that they aided in distribution of campaign literature, and that, in the case of executive officers, they collected or caused to be collected political campaign funds from other employees.

He said that between 15 and 20 employees of the Peoria district of the highway division had been charged with violations but their cases probably would not be tried until early next year in Peoria. Until the cases are set for trial, the names of the employees involved would not be disclosed, Meloy said.

Dorothy Chapter—

The chaplain's prayer was followed by a vocal solo, "The Lord's Prayer," (Mallotte), by Mrs. John W. Mills, with Mrs. Myrtle Bishop playing her accompaniments.

Twelve young women, carrying large white chrysanthemums, formed a cross and knelt with Mrs. Marjorie Barrowman, as the new worthy matron received the obligation, and Mrs. Mills sang a solo, "All for You," in her honor. As Mrs. Barrowman was escorted to the east, her escorts formed an archway with the flowers they carried. For last evening's ritual, Mrs. Barrowman wore luscious pink lace, fashioned with a long torso bodice and very full skirt, with blue velvet ribbon edging the low square neckline, the puffed sleeves, and hemline. Her flowers were carnations in the same delicate shade of pink, combined with blue mauline.

Forming Mr. Barrowman's escort as he received his obligation as worthy patron were a dozen members of Dixon Commandery, No. 21, which he serves as senior warden. As he took his place in the east, the Knights Templar raised their swords to form an archway. The other officers, listed in these columns last evening, were also installed singly.

In behalf of the chapter, Mrs. Frances Schrock presented a past worthy matron's pin to Mrs. Emmert, and Mr. Santelman received a similar token from Mr. Tennant. Mrs. Eula Wilson, the new associate matron, presented gifts to the retiring worthy matron and worthy patron.

Congratulatory telegrams for Mr. and Mrs. Barrowman were read from Glenn Coe, a past patron of the chapter and a 33rd Degree Mason, who was transacting business in Springfield, and from the incoming worthy matron and worthy patron of the Marengo chapter.

A short talk by the associate grand patron was followed by two solos by Mrs. Mills, "Prelude" from "The Cycle of Life" and "Coquetry", concluding the ceremony that ushers in the concluding months of another year for the chapter, which was organized April 18, 1897.

Following a brief reception, refreshments were served by Mrs. Violet Espy's committee in the banquet room. Silver bowls held white chrysanthemums, and nut-cups were in the form of chrysanthemums, holding silver and white booklets containing names of the officers. Silver stars completed the decorative motif, arranged by Harold Cook. Ice cream, molded in the form of chrysanthemums, was served with silver and white cake.

Among the out of town guests attending last evening's ceremony was Mrs. Barrowman's mother, Mrs. D. R. Brazel of Alton, who arrived in Dixon, Wednesday, and is remaining for another week.

65 miles northwest of Moscow, but had taken a new stand. Four German divisions, about 60,000 troops, were reported hammering Russian lines in the Mozhaik sector. 57 miles west of Moscow, and heavy nazi reinforcements were said to have arrived in the Kalinin sector, 95 miles north-west of the capital.

British military dispatches said Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham's five-day-old offensive into Libya had scored a decisive victory in the desert. Cairo dispatches said the Germans had been smashed back in at least three attempts to break out of the desert trap.

Report Germans Trapped Authoritative London quarters said first reports of the "terrific dogfight" raging over the sandy wastes indicated that half of Germany's tanks in North Africa already had been knocked out of action. Cairo dispatches said the Germans were believed to have no less than two armored divisions with 700 tanks locked in the British encirclement between Tobruk and Fort Capuzzo.

In Rome, Italian newspapers pictured the British counter-invasion as precipitating a Titanic battle and declared that the axis armies faced opposition outstripping anything they had met so far in North Africa.

In a special bulletin, broadcast with a heralding fanfare of trumpets, Hitler's high command said Col. Gen. Ewald Von Kleist's shock troops and SS elite forces stormed into Rostov-on-Don (normal pop. 500,000) after a violent final assault.

The communique emphasized that the city, guarding the northern route to the Caucasus oil treasures, "is of special importance for the further conduct of the war"—an evident reference to Germany's need of fresh oil stores to fuel and lubricate her military machine.

As well as being a terminus for one arm of the oil pipeline from the Caucasus, Rostov is important for its grain trade, industries and rail and water communications. As the Russo-German war entered its sixth month, nazi military commentators gave this summary of the situation in three major zones:

Leningrad—Encircled Russians are in "imminent danger".

Moscow—"The greatest decisions are ripening".

Donets basin—"Definitely doomed".

According to the U. S. department of commerce, there are 9,300,000 miles of improved highways in the world, and about 3,900,000 miles are in the U. S.

Alexander Hamilton's Son Was Early Illinois Cattleman, Writers Find

Colonel William S. Hamilton, son of Alexander Hamilton, was one of the first big cattle dealers in Illinois, according to the Illinois Writers' Project, WPA. As early as 1825 Colonel Hamilton, accompanied by four other men, drove a herd of cattle overland from Springfield, Illinois, to Green Bay, Wisconsin, for the garrison at Fort Howard. The trip consumed more than a month. It would seem that Hamilton was under contract with the War Department, because, when settlers at Chicago sought to buy some of the cattle, he refused to sell.

Concord Coaches Were Gay as Circus Chariots

"Concord Coaches," painted and decorated in gold and various gay colors, were the most imposing vehicles used on the old Illinois stage coach routes, according to the Illinois Writers' Project, WPA. In their gaudy apparel they were said to rival circus chariots. Some cost as much as $3,000, a large sum for those days, but rival lines were fighting for business. Apparently the coaches formed the best part of the trips, because tavern accommodations were often poor in the '30s. Travelers slept on beds and pillows of hay, and covered themselves with their own blankets.

Draft Board Officials Declare Camp Grant One of Finest in U. S.

Nearly 200 Men Toured Reception, Medical Center Recently

Camp Grant, Ill. (Special)—Proclaiming Camp Grant one of the finest they ever had seen, nearly 200 local selective service board officials from northern Illinois toured the recruit reception and medical replacement centers here this week.

Purpose of the visit, which was planned by Brig. Gen. John M. Willis, camp commander, and Lieut. Col. Hans C. Minuth, reception center commander, was to give the board members an insight into the workings of the camp in order to guide them in their activities.

Third Tour
Cooperating in the enterprise was Col. Paul G. Armstrong, of Springfield, state Selective Service director, who stated the tour was the third to be held in Illinois.

He said that until the present time local board men knew nothing of the operation of Camp Grant except what they had read in newspapers.

Maj. W. J. DuBog, of Washington, a selective service field director, said this tour was the first of its kind in the nation which had come to his attention, "I think it is the finest approach to the morale problem that can possibly be found," he said.

Arriving shortly after noon, the group was greeted by General Willis and then taken on a detailed tour of the reception Camp Grant, first aid selective service x x the reception center to witness the processing of new soldiers.

They visited the classification section where they observed trained personnel men interviewing the recruits in an attempt to find their proper niches and the administration of typhoid anti-toxin, blood typing and vaccinations.

Turning to the clothing division, they saw the men being fitted with regulation clothes of winter issue from shoes to caps.

"Things Have Changed"
"Things certainly have changed here," observed Warren Rowan, a visitor from Belvidere. "When I came to Camp Grant, back in 1917, they just threw a pair of shoes at me and we wore them whether they fit or not. Now a man has a chance to get just the right size in every stitch of clothing."

Rae Arnold, of Dixon, pointed out the same condition existed in the Navy in those years. He joined the navy just before the outbreak of hostilities. "Things were just the same there," he stated. "And sometimes there was no clothing available. I had to wait five weeks before I could get any sort of uniform."

Address of Welcome
A motor convoy carried the visitors from the reception center to the Medical Department Replacement Training center for a program in the War department theater which included an address of welcome and orientation of military courtesy in reference to civilians.

Lieut. Allen Herman, plans and training officer, outlined the medical instruction given soldiers stationed for 13 weeks of basic military training, pointing out that much of the knowledge acquired would be of value in civilian life.

At the obstacle course Colonel Martin explained the value of building rugged bodies as a group of soldiers dashed over the quarter mile course, scaling walls, jumping trenches and spanning creeks.

He told the visitors the principal purpose of this phase of the work was to strengthen the individuals physically so they would be able to cope with any situation which might arise in the future.

Fred J. Walz, of Aurora, stated he believed this conditioning was of great value in building bodies. "We had a somewhat similar program at Great Lakes, Ill., in 1917 when I was in the navy, he said, "and I believe it is a splendid and most profitable idea."

On the camp drill field the selective service officials saw a whole battalion and the Camp Grant band in retreat parade formation.

Have Army Chow
At the conclusion of the day's program the visitors were taken to a reception center mess hall for a meal of regular army chow and a discussion of local selective service problems.

Success of the venture was indicated by John W. Dubbs, LaSalle county appeal agent, who said he could think of no way in which camp officials could better tell board members about activities here than a tour of this sort.

Capt. Baird Helfrich, of the selective service headquarters, Springfield, termed it "a most splendid idea both from the view point of the camp officials and that of local board men."

Hope that other tours of the kind would be held was expressed by Albert Ruggles, secretary of the Dixon board. "We are thankful to Camp Grant for this opportunity to see the inside of things," he declared. I hope that similar programs will be held in the future.

Treasury Prepares to Collect Tax From Car Owners for 5 Months
Washington, Nov. 22—(AP)—Tentative treasury plans for collection of the new $5 a year federal automobile use tax called today for the mailing of bills to owners by a commercial publishing concern.

Although no final signatures have been affixed, the contract has been drawn up to have this work done by R. L. Polk & Co., for about $400,000.

The concern would compile the list of automobile owners from state registration lists and mail out bills payable either at internal revenue offices or postoffices. Under the law recently enacted, automobile owners would be required to pay $2.09 for a sticker good from February 1 until July 1 of next year. Then a sticker would be required at a cost of $5 for the following twelve months.

French Must Keep Their Mouths Shut or Risk Jail Term

New York, (The Special News Service)—France today is a country where you keep your mouth shut—literally—or run the risk of going to jail.

Particularly in the occupied zone, freely expressed approval or criticism of any phase of official or military activity may lead to arrest or denunciation.

It extends even to an unofficial prohibition against speaking English in public places.

Some of the unfriendly feeling of French people toward Americans arises from discontent over the present situation and a desire to blame somebody, even unreasonably, for France's defeat.

Peculiar Feature
The peculiar feature of the situation is that an unconsidered remark among strangers often may be interpreted several ways, with unpleasant consequences attached to each.

For example, a Frenchman was talking to a dinner companion in a Paris restaurant one night not long ago. They were discussing the entrance of Japanese troops in French Indo-China.

"The damned Japanese have finally gotten in," he said. "I suppose the old marshal knows what he's doing but I sometimes wonder. But I can see how we couldn't help Indo-China defend herself."

Those expressions got him into trouble in two different ways, and the next morning—because he was well known in Paris—he was taken into custody by French police for questioning.

A German officer in civilian clothes reported he had expressed anti-axis sentiments by referring to the "damned Japanese." A Frenchman—A strong supporter of the Vichy government—who overheard his remarks told a friend in the prefecture of police that Mr. X. had criticized the marshal by calling him "old" and intimating he perhaps did not know what he was doing.

"Harmless" Remarks
Mr. X. explained to French detectives that his remarks although careless, were harmless, and he was released after he had signed a statement admitting he had made the remarks but denying he intended to offend anyone. But now he has an official French police record, and if he is reported again he will already have one black mark against him.

Harvester Co. Adopts New Insurance Scheme
Chicago, Nov. 22—(AP)—The International Harvester Company has adopted a group life insurance plan under which employees receive paid up insurance which belongs to them individually, regardless of whether they remain in the firm's employ.

The plan, approved by 80 percent of the employees, will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1942, and provides approximately $100,000,000 worth of life insurance for 65,000 employees. The cost of the new plan, plus additional sickness, accident and hospital protection, was estimated by the company at $760,000 annually.

Another group plan, under which term life insurance will remain in force during employment by the company, will be continued.

At the conclusion of the day's program the visitors were taken to a reception center mess hall for a meal of regular army chow and a discussion of local selective service problems.

Success of the venture was indicated by John W. Dubbs, LaSalle county appeal agent, who said he could think of no way in which camp officials could better tell board members about activities here than a tour of this sort.

Capt. Baird Helfrich, of the selective service headquarters, Springfield, termed it "a most splendid idea both from the view point of the camp officials and that of local board men."

Hope that other tours of the kind would be held was expressed by Albert Ruggles, secretary of the Dixon board. "We are thankful to Camp Grant for this opportunity to see the inside of things," he declared. I hope that similar programs will be held in the future.

Work on 2 Ocean Navy Progressing; Speed Is Essential

An announcement, made public recently by the United States Navy Department, that construction has been started on six 27,000-ton super cruisers, indicates that work on our new "Two-Ocean" Navy has been further accelerated. This latest statement concerning Naval shipbuilding brings the total number of new ships ordered since January 1, 1941 to 2,831—with 968 of these ships already under construction. Production line methods are being used wherever possible and a pronounced speed-up has been accomplished by the institution of a 48-hour week and a three-shift 24-hour day. 375,000 men are already employed in shipyards and another 125,000 men will be added to his force of workmen who are speeding ships down the ways at the rate of at least one every ten days.

So coordinated and precise is the current naval shipbuilding program that many months are being cut from the normal building time of American-made warships.

This expert planning and new speed in construction of our ships from 45,000-ton dreadnaughts to small torpedo boats opens the way for the Navy to accept new qualified men for training at the rate of 12,000 to 15,000 a month. These men, enlisting in either the regular Navy or the Naval Reserve, will be sent to one of the four Naval Training Stations and may have a chance to go to a Navy Trade School even before assignment to the fleet. During this period they will receive regular Navy pay and the free Navy schooling is valued at hundreds of dollars.

Every new ship in our Navy will require not only hundreds of additional sailors but many more Navy men will be needed to work in Navy dry docks, machine shops, ordnance depots and other shore posts to keep the new ships in action.

"Never in the history of the United States has there been greater opportunity for loyal young Americans to serve their country and build their futures than right now," Secretary of the Navy Knox recently said.

"It is possible for a bright young man to increase his pay seven times during his first enlistment and he can earn as much as $126 a month. This monthly figure is actually worth much more when it is remembered that the man has few living expenses and is provided with the finest of medical and dental care.

"You have all your food and lodging, and also your original clothing outfit is provided Uncle Sam free. In addition there are free sports and entertainment. On top of this, you free travel and adventure in colorful places a thing few civilians can afford.

"When you consider the size of this country and the fact that Navy will select only 12,000 applicants a month from many times that number throughout the United States, the quotation 'Many are called, but few are chosen' will apply to local men interested.

"As Navy men are a 'hard-picked' lot, candidates must be men or more than average intelligence and ambition, of fine moral character and must have the written recommendation of at least two local townspersons."

As Navy Editor, Ben T. Shreve has received from Washington a supply of free illustrated booklets for all men interested. In addition, will welcome inquiries from young men who wish to look into the new and greater opportunities the Naval and the Naval Reserve now offer for training for civilian careers as they serve their country now in its emergency.

Class Goes to Ames
On the week-end of November 14 the advanced home economics class of the Franklin Grove Community high school made a field trip to Ames, Iowa to visit Iowa state college which is located there. The girls participating in the field trip included Marjorie Coy, Donna Marie Gilbert, Irene John, Lucille Larson, Marion Mattern. Mary Jane Norris, Phyllis Pyse and Carol Schwab with Miss Betty Ann Sankot, the home economics instructor, and Hazel Blume and Mary Gilbert, the drivers, accompanying them.

Friday afternoon and Saturday morning were spent in touring the college nursery school; the home economics building where the girls visited the experimental rat laboratories, the art studios and household equipment laboratories; radio station WOI where they watched a program which was being broadcasted; and the Grant Wood murals in the college libraries. Saturday afternoon the group attended the football game between Iowa State college and Drake university, which game was played at the Drake stadium in Des Moines, Iowa.

Sunday on the trip home, the girls stopped at Tama, Iowa to visit the Indian reservation of the Sac and Fox Indian tribes. There the girls witnessed an Indian dance with music furnished by tom-toms, and were much interested in the peace pipe which was passed from one Indian to the next all the way around the circle. The girls bought some bead and leather jewelry for souvenirs. A tired but happy group of girls returned home Sunday evening, having enjoyed their first taste of college life.

Business Turns Old Fashioned
New York.—(The Special News Service)—Business is going old-fashioned.

Many small firms are dropping their modern corporate charters and are returning to the old forms of sole proprietorships or partnerships.

The reason: Taxes. Congress and state legislatures have always been more disposed to lay heavy taxes on corporations, the bloodless creations of modern business, than on men doing business as individuals. Today they have made the tax burden of corporations so much heavier than that on partnerships and sole proprietorships that man, companies are going back to the old forms.

Beginning of Trend
Tax experts say it is the beginning of a trend which will continue during the coming year. Many little corporations have ahead of them an unpleasant rendezvous with the tax collector which may make them wonder whether a corporate charter is worth the price. Here are a few of the taxes which corporations face but individuals avoid: Two excess profits taxes. Taxes on unreasonable accumulation of earnings. Holding company taxes. Capital stock taxes. State franchise taxes. Unincorporated businesses pay none of these taxes. Their profits are considered as part of the personal income of the owners and are subject to personal income taxes. These taxes are stiff but often are less than corporate levies would be. Subject to Double Taxation. Earnings of a corporation, moreover, are subject to double taxation. First they are taxed as corporate income. Then they are taxed as personal income when they are distributed to stockholders. The popularity of the corporate form of organization for small businesses arose primarily because of the limited liability of stockholders. Under the corporate form, a stockholder is liable in the event of failure only to the extent that he has already bought stock in the company. In the case of a sole proprietorship or partnership, however, the entire personal fortunes of the owners may be attached for debts of the business.
